

Vivian Lee, reference librarian at Pahrump Community Library, is a poet and author of the novel, The Picking Fields. This gripping story will tug at your heart as she tells the story of the extreme hardships endured by a young girl and her brother who struggle to survive a life of poverty and neglect. Her ability to portray what could be a truth for some young children as they live their sad lives will stop your heart. If you would like information on how to read her novel, you may contact: www.PublishAmerica.com, or Vivian at Pahrump Community Library at www.pahrumplibrary.com, 775-727-5930 x 14.

THE PICKING FIELDS

The Picking Fields is LeAnna and her brothers' journey through an early childhood full of sex, violence and starvation. The picking fields was one of their sources of food, and the account of their lives is a compelling story that will keep the reader captivated.

VIVIAN LEE

was born in California in the early '40s to a family of eleven children. Her parents were both Cherokee Indian. She is married and has three children, Rene, James, and Dennis. She lives in Southern Nevada with her husband, Raymond, where she works in a public library.

www.PublishAmerica.com