

Dick Senior was born June 24, 1929, in Kane, PA, graduated from Bradford, PA in June of 1947, and has worked as a farmer, a machinist, and a gas station attendant. Additionally, he has worked in the oil fields of Pennsylvania, been a bulldozer operator and a plumber who has worked on everything from housing units and commercial buildings to high-rise buildings in the Los Angeles area, chemical plants around the states, and nuclear power houses with the Plumbers and Fitters of the United States from which he retired with fifty years of service.

He is a retiree who lives in Pahrump, Nevada and still enjoys hunting and fishing. He cares for water sources on Mt. Charleston, NV for wildlife which has always been of interest to him and he helped to create a book for fourth grade pupils on how to keep our water resources and the mountain clean for future generations. The project was funded by Pahrump Arts Council and the Nevada Forest Service through the "Mt. Charleston License Plate Grant."

He has been writing poetry for quite a long time and has been published in newspapers, the Prospector magazines, The National Library of Poetry, and Poetic Voices of America, as well as in his graduating class reunion book.

---

His poetry is in the column "Feature Poets/Writers"

See "Forum" for

Wheeler Well Project
Pahrump Arts Council
Nevada Forest Service